"Huckleberry" 6ft x 8ft for South By Southwest SOLD

who is max zorn //

With a surgeon's scalpel for a brush, Max Zorn is a "tape artist" who uses ordinary brown packing tape as his medium and a scalpel as a brush. Based in Amsterdam, Max Zorn shapes layers upon layers of tape on acrylic glass that, when illuminated from behind, reveal contrasts and warmth that has stunned the art world.

max zorn tape art //

The freehand craftwork and vividness of his sepia-toned creations, straight lines and sharp subjects give Max Zorn's settings a pure and believable depth. His characters are depicted like a James Ellroy novel, revealing the menace in the shadow and an indefinite fragility behind the nostalgic glamor days.

Max Zorn's iconic style ranges from his shimmering skyscrapers and Americana to grandiose European charm set between lines of decadence and disillusion. With his unmistakable way to compose cinematic settings, Max Zorn pulls spectator into his motifs and encourages his audience to .continue his story about the artist //

In 2011 Max Zorn emerged as an urban artist who hung tape art on street lamps. Using the night as his setting, his work dotted the street lamps of many European capitals like London, Madrid, Lisbon, and Berlin.

In an impressively short timeline, Max Zorn's tape art has seen opportunities and a worldwide demand at an accelerating speed. His work has since evolved into solo exhibitions worldwide, with an international resume spanning innovative projects from ArtBasel in Hong Kong to downtown Bangkok and Ripley's Believe It Or Not!.

Max Zorn's project Stick Together began in 2012 and received thousands of participants eager to be involved with urban art. Sparking the creation of live events around Europe by top international artists, now Stick Together's identity eclipses into an art gallery housing some of the most prolific and established artists in the new and fresh niche of contemporary art.

"Huckleberry" for South By Southwest 2014 SOLD

#MAX ZORN

commissioned "Huckleberry" // artwork + video

Over 200 rolls of tape were used to create "Huckleberry", standing 10ft x 6ft high, as a nightly beacon promoting South By Southwest 2014: the world's largest music, film and interactive festival.

In a view path of over 100,000 attendees, the "Huckleberry" installation in downtown Austin, Texas, received enough media and audience attention to be a South By Southwest dominant symbol of the festival. "This was an amazing example of a great Eco program. Truly inspired, and inspiring for everyone able to experience," Chris Sonnier, Director of South By Southwest.

in the media //

"These amazing, cinematic portraits are all the more impressive because his only tools are rolls of packing tape and a scalpel."

- The Daily Mail

"Zorn has build a reputation for roaming the city, creating cinematic portraits using nothing more than sticky tape."

- CNN

"His masterful workings of light and shadow make you forget how limiting his materials are and embrace the medium for all its possibilities."

- Huffington Post

"Max Zorn's tape art is pure mysticism. His use of medium and environment demonstrates extreme care and forethought."

- SocietePerrier

"Max Zorn has silenced the entire TED audience with brown tape, but not in the way you'd expect."

- TED Talks

"Not since Scotch debuted double stick has HuffPost been so excited about tape."

- Huffington Post

"Fans say the final effect is like sunlight filtered through a sepia-toned window."

- The Sun

"This remarkable piece by the artist known as 'packasso' could be coming to a streetlamp near you."

- The Daily Mail

an accessible artist and fan base //

Max Zorn has a global fan base increasing daily. Online, his social media network boasts more than 45k followers, and a growing collection of over 2 million plus YouTube viewers.

As an accessible artist, Max Zorn often doubles as a performance artist, creating his tape artwork live for audiences at art fairs, exhibitions and charities.

His open personality makes Max Zorn an approachable artist, while his patience and genuine fascination with art create a positive and intriguing environment.
